16-Month-Old Baby Receives Fracture of Skull; Five Other Children Are Hurt But Will Recover.

George H. Findley, 634 Griffin avenue, N. W., probably was fatally injured, and six children, all under 15 years of age, suffered serious lacerations and bruises shortly after 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon when an automobile in which they were riding skidded on Marietta street near North avenue, crashed into a telephone post and was practically demolished.

Findley was rushed to a local hospital where he was found to be suffering from a fractured skull, a badly crushed shoulder, and internal injuries.

Hammond Findley, 16-months-old, received the most serious injury. He suffered a fracture of the skull and is in a serious condition. Ruby Abernathy, 15, and Abrya Abernathy, 10, both of the Findley address, received lacerations about the head and body bruises. Edwin Bannister, 8, 633 Griffin avenue, received cuts about the face and head, as did Regina Borders, 7, of 615 Griffin avenue. Arthur Morris, 9, 615 Griffin avenue was reported to be suffering from an injury to his back. All were taken to Grady hospital.

Call Officers W. A. Goode and J. D. Timmie, who investigated the crash reported that the car evidently skidded on the wet pavement, and struck the car tracks with such force that a rear wheel came off, throwing the machine against the post and wrecking it.

An automobile driven by Jimmie Lynch, 490 Hill street, salesman for the Atlantic Ice and Coal company also was wrecked when it hit a telephone post Sunday. The car skidded on Decatur street near Piedmont, Lynch was carried to Grady hospital unconscious. It was found that he had received a fractured right arm and several broken ribs, with possible internal injuries. His condition was not considered critical.

Feeling that some recognition should be made of the valor of Policeman John E. Leading in the movement was Robert Gordon, one of Atlanta's leading citizens, and former mayor pro tem who offered to head a subscription list submitted for the American Furniture company. "It is a duty Atlanta owes a brave and popular officer of the law," Mr. Gordon told The Constitution. The fund is started with the following subscriptions:

Death came a few hours after physicians, in a last desperate effort to save his life, had performed an emergency operation to remove an intestinal obstruction.

In his statement, President Martin said, "Spiller has attempted to take an unfair advantage," and continued: "When caught violating the rules, he generally pleads ignorance of the fact, as he did when he escaped heavy penalties for sending players away from a game."

ALBANY TO HEAR
AL SMITH SPEECH

New York Capital Ready for Great Demonstration at Notification Rites Wednesday.

BY PERCY B. SCOTT.
(United News Staff Correspondent.)

Albany, N. Y., August 19.—Fore-runners of the thousands of persons expected to gather here Wednesday night for Governor Alfred E. Smith's formal acceptance of the democratic presidential nomination, invaded the city today.

Their automobiles spluttered aimlessly along the crowded streets or up the steep State street grade toward the domed capitol steps or talked on the side of the road or talked in little groups on street corners. Hundreds of early visitors had walked through the capitol grounds before nightfall. They stopped for a minute near the platform erected on the capitol steps or drew slowly toward the executive mansion half a dozen blocks away.

Visitors from a dozen different states walked beneath the flags and bunting flapping from business houses along State street.

Albany was ready for her biggest day.

The big rush will begin Monday and continue through Tuesday and early Wednesday. Visitors will come here on 37 special trains, nine of them bringing Tammany's loyal sons from New York city where Governor Smith grew up and began his political career. Special Hudson river boats also have been chartered.

The first of the official visitors, including members of the national committee, members of congress and other party dignitaries will begin to arrive Monday. Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, vice presidential nominee is expected Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, it is expected, will be guests at the executive mansion with Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, who will make the notification speech, and Mrs. Pittman.

Smith Rites.

In preparation for the mammoth party demonstration the nominee is resting at the mansion. He attended the police drill team, the police band and a squad of motorcycle officers.

Negroes Pray

Of Policeman

Pleas for Officer McDaniel Are Made Hours After His Death.

The love and respect felt for Patrolman John E. McDaniel, victim of two bullets from Fred Fair's pistol, was evidenced Sunday in a large number of churches for negroes, where the congregations, unaware that the officer had died early in the morning, joined in prayers for his recovery.

An unusual amount of interest had been expressed by negroes as well as white persons in the condition of the officer. Hundreds of calls were made to police station and Grady during the past few days inquiring as to his chances for recovery. Sunday, a number of negroes called at police station and told of the services in the churches.

There were numerous visitors also at the little home of the officer at 618 Oakland avenue, S. W. It is estimated that more than a thousand persons called, and a number also included many negroes.

Officer Boykin, a warm friend of Officer McDaniel, visited Grady hospital early Sunday morning with the expectation of seeing the patrolman only to be told that he had arrived three hours too late. "The Atlanta police department suffered a great loss with the death of McDaniel," Mr. Boykin said Sunday. "Never have I seen a more efficient or courteous officer than McDaniel."

Experienced Republican Politicians Admit Little Hope of Breaking Into "Solid South."

TENNESSEE SEEN
AS BEST G. O. P. BET

Factional Fights Inside Republican Ranks, However, Injure Party; Democrats Ready for Fight.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.
(United News Staff Correspondent.)

New York, August 19.—The political situation in the south at this stage of the campaign may be summed up as being the most favorable the republican party ever faced, with democrats for the first time forced into a defensive position which they will fight to hold, reports gathered by the United News indicate.

The United News has been engaged in making a survey of the southern political situation, through its correspondents in every important town of the south, during the last two weeks. The reports thus gathered indicate the republicans apparently have little better than an outside chance to break into the solid south in any appreciable way, but any prediction at this time is unwise because of the unusual factors complicating the situation.

The county issues of white democracy, a practiced eye, hold little hope of any decided upheaval in the south. They reach this conclusion after taking into account all factors for and against their chances. But they know that politics is a strange game, and that the present situation is hopeful of one of those political revolutions which now and then take place and upset their previous calculations.

The first of the official visitors, including members of the national committee, members of congress and other party dignitaries will begin to arrive Monday. Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, vice presidential nominee is expected Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, it is expected, will be guests at the executive mansion with Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, who will make the notification speech, and Mrs. Pittman.

Smith Rites.

In preparation for the mammoth party demonstration the nominee is resting at the mansion. He attended the police drill team, the police band and a squad of motorcycle officers.

Tennessee Best Bet.

Harding carried it in 1920. It has considerable regular republican strength. With republican prospects otherwise appearing good, the split between the negro and "holy white" factions of the republican organization in the state is an obstacle. United News reports from the state are that republican chances will be considerably lessened if the factional fight between R. R. (Bob) Church, negro leader, and the white wing of the party is not settled.

The injection of the "wet" and "dry" issue this year has brought a new factor into the Tennessee situation, one whose effect it is hard to predict. Tennessee is a legal and regular one and said the "expense money" was a part of his fee. He also received $5,000 as his share of the commission. He flatly and emphatically denied ever having offered or given any council member any money in connection with the affair.

Republican workers have hopes in North Carolina, which is regarded as their second best bet. This state also has many regular republican voters. If many democrats bolt the ticket or the North Carolina.

PARK SALE DEAL WILL BE RESUMED

Committee Will Meet This Morning; Councilman Harry York Denies Receiving Money.

Following sensational accusations made by Sam P. Cronheim, real estate dealer, Saturday, involving 11 members of city council in connection with the second auction, by the city, of the Perkerson tract of land, the special councilman investigating committee will renew its hearing at 9 o'clock this morning.

The examination of witnesses will be taken up at the point at which it stopped Saturday with John A. Smith, president of the Sylvan Hills Improvement club, as the first witness.

Councilman Harry York, of the sixth ward, one of the accused members who, according to Mr. Cronheim, received $200 in the park sale deal, will be one of the witnesses.

York Denies Charge.

Mr. York arrived in Atlanta Sunday night from an extended European trip and when informed of Cronheim's statement emphatically denied that he had ever received any money or that any had been offered him.

Mr. York, of the fourth ward, Saturday afternoon, that they would have the matter presented for investigation by a Fulton county grand jury in order that their names may be cleared.

Mr. Ford is alleged to have received a sum of $3,900, which was to have been used, according to Cronheim and Smith, for "expense money."

The others who were said by Cronheim to have received money or who expected to receive money were: Alderman W. B. Hartfield, of the third ward, chairman of the investigating committee; Councilman H. C. McArthur, of the second ward, also a member of the committee; Alderman J. A. Couch, of the fifth ward; Alderman R. B. Gann, of the sixth ward; Councilman W. G. Cooper, of the tenth ward; and Councilman W. E. Saunders, of the twelfth ward.

Ford Denies Charge.

The real estate operator in his accusation said that Mr. Ford told him of the council members who were to receive the money. Mr. Cronheim designated Councilman York as the tenth ward, and Councilman W. E. Saunders, of the twelfth ward.

RASKOB URGES ALL CITIZENS TO SHOW
INTEREST BY VOTE

Declares United States Is Behind Other Countries in Exercising the Right of Citizens at Polls.

BY JOHN J. RASKOB.

Nothing is more important to the future of America than that our citizens manifest their own interest in its future by voting. We must deplore the fact that in the last presidential election, of fifty-four million qualified voters, only about 50 per cent cast their votes. This year, it is anticipated that there will be fifty-five million qualified voters in the country, and I hope and urge that the great proportion of these will take advantage of the voting right. It is a sad commentary on our democracy that Germany, with only half of our population, saw two million more votes cast at its election for president than the United States in 1924.

We are generally behind other countries in the voting record, although in foreign countries the voting franchise has been a comparatively recent exercise of sovereignty by the citizens. It is commendable that both parties this year are making earnest endeavors to have enrolled a very large vote. If an administration is to function well and to decide wisely on important issues, it should be governed by public opinion. We certainly do not get the public opinion of the United States when only 50 per cent of the qualified voters appear at the polls. The time to record either satisfaction or disappointment of officials is on election day. Grading about twenty-four million on other days of the year is largely a waste of time.

Temporary Government.

We do not want to see here a government of all the people by 50 per cent of the people. We have been having a government by only a minority within the 50 per cent, which is far less than the actual majority of this qualified voters.

This coming election will afford the people an opportunity to register their views in no uncertain way on some of the most important issues. Neither candidates, if elected, would feel proud for acting as chief executive if only a portion of 50 per cent of the voters is responsible for his certificate of election.

In 1924 Mr. Coolidge received fifteen million, seven hundred and twenty-five thousand and sixteen votes. Mr. Davis received eight million, three hundred eighty-eight thousand, three hundred and eighty-eight votes. Mr. La Follette received four million, eight hundred thirty thousand and four hundred seventy-eight votes. And there were scattered one hundred and fifty-seven thousand votes. The total vote was only twenty-nine million, ninety-nine thousand, one hundred and thirty-one. There were qualified to vote in 1924, fifty-four million, one hundred twenty-eight thousand, eight hundred and ninety-five. So that Mr. Coolidge, who was elected president, only received a little more than one-fourth of the qualified votes of the country.

Woman Gets Black Eye in Mystery Battle at Hollywood Party.

Hollywood, Calif., August 19.—(United News.)—A cowboy actor, who says, "I'm not much of a social success," played a leading role in a Hollywood battle early today before 75 celebrities of the movie city and of Los Angeles.

Will Morrissey, actor and promoter of musical comedies and reviews, supported by his wife, "Midgie" Miller, played opposite Mix.

Mrs. Morrissey received a black eye in the battle.

Morrissey was arrested at the Venice police station when he went, he said, to prefer charges against Mix. The promoter was held as being intoxicated. When his wife insisted on staying with him, she also was booked.

George Behan was host. It was a house warming party in the new home of the well-known actor. The guest list read like a Hollywood book.

The night was dark and that accounts in part for the difference in the stories told tonight.

There's the fact that Mrs. Morrissey received a black eye. Morrissey said Mix did it. Mix said he ducked a fast one that Morrissey started from the floor and Mrs. Morrissey took the blow.

Mix admits he won the battle, but Morrissey claimed to have floored the cowboy twice. Mix said he didn't receive a scratch.

Morrissey said the conversation early in the evening turned, of course, to the talking pictures. The producer jokingly informed Mix that he wouldn't mind seeing "Tony," the cowboy's famous horse, in the talkies.

Mix was going to do about the new era. Then the producer added, he offered to shake hands when Mix was going to leave, and the fight started.

"I'm glad he didn't bring Tony to the party with him," was Morrissey's comment today. The cowboy knocked him down and kicked him with his "trick boots," Morrissey claimed.

The fight took place in the dark, out of the light of the cameras. It was at 2 o'clock in the morning.

Morrissey said while he was down, his wife ran to his rescue and was struck by Mix.

TOLERANCE URGED
BY DR. C. B. WILMER

Denunciation of Anti-Prohibitionists Is Declared "Piece of Arrogance and Tyranny."

"Preaching obedience to law is within the prerogative of the pulpit, but denunciation by prohibitionists of those who think some other method of control would be wiser is an intolerant piece of arrogance and tyranny," declared Dr. C. B. Wilmer at the 11 o'clock service Sunday morning at St. Luke's Episcopal church.

Dr. Wilmer, who is one of the most prominent ministers in the south, is a former rector of St. Luke's and now is a professor of theology in the University of the South. He spoke in the absence of Rev. N. R. H. Moor, who is out of the city.

"In short, many earnest and sincere persons are making the mistake of that multitude that wanted to take Christ and 'make Him king,' and from whom Christ made his escape," he said.

"The church is in danger of leaving that realm where it is, 'might be, strong and going into that where it is destructively strong and constructively weak. This error is at its worst when it leads to personal denunciation in the pulpit."

Political Meeting.

"It turns each congregation into a political meeting in which those who have a right to differ find themselves without representation or opportunity to reply, and in which religion reason and true charity."

"Our country at this hour needs places of worship and inspiration, where on Sunday men and women may meet as children of our common Father in heaven and be enabled to go out and serve in a spirit of tolerance, reason and true charity."

Dr. Wilmer's sermon, which was delivered before a large congregation, was entitled "The Church and Politics." In it he discussed at length the duty of the pulpit in so far as politics is concerned.

In this connection, he said: "The tolerance of religious bodies and religious leaders to bulldoze church members into compliance with their political opinions is worse than the attempt of a responsible person like Gasoline Supply Only Sufficient Until 1 P. M. Sunday; Radio Signals Weak.

Rockford, Ill., August 19.—(AP)—"No sign of Hassell yet. Long overdue, Etes," Those words, tonight, radioed from Mount Evans, Greenland, to the Rockford Chamber of Commerce, apparently rang the knell of the flight of the Greater Rockford, piloted by Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer.

The message was signed by Elmer Etes, plane mechanic sent ahead of the flight to wait the Greater Rockford's arrival.

The Greater Rockford was flying from Cochrane, Ont., to Mt. Evans on the second leg of its flight from Rockford to Stockholm, Sweden. It was scheduled to arrive at Mt. Evans at 8 o'clock this morning.

It had left Cochrane at 11:12 a. m., yesterday morning with gasoline sufficient for 26 hours aboard, enough to carry the flyers until 1 o'clock this afternoon.

East Radio Signal.

Radio signals were received until 3 a. m. today, at which time they indicated the plane was out 75 miles from the coast of Labrador, 400 miles from its goal, and going strong.

Hope that the flyers might have attained their destination was strong during the day, however, because it was impossible for radio station NX-1XL at Mt. Evans to communicate with the United States during the day.

The station is part of the University of Michigan Greenland expedition and is too weak to transmit successfully except at night. The message from Etes, however, dampened the hopes of the most optimistic.

Don Mix, radio expert of the Burgess Battery station, Madison, Wis., received all reports known to have been sent by the Greater Rockford, operating on a wave band of 32.8. He was unable to get a call signal since 3 a. m. today, but continued at his post tonight.

Wife Confident.

While a restless, jittery, fretted by a sleepless night, stood silent before newspaper bulletin boards, Mrs. Rosalia Hassell, wife of Bert Hassell, stayed quietly at home, caring for her two children.

She was secure today in the belief that her husband was safe.

"You wait a while, she told anxious neighbors. 'You won't hear anything for awhile, and then there will be good news from Greenland that he landed safely.'

"She knew she must not worry—that was her husband's command to her yesterday in a morning conversation from Cochrane, Ontario, just before he hoped off toward Greenland.

"Don't worry, darling," he told her. "We'll make it all right."

"No Need to Worry."

Mrs. Hassell, as the wife of a man who has been flying since 1915, found hope in the report that the plane was 75 miles off Cape Chidley at 3 a. m.

"He has reached Greenland by now," she declared. "Please tell it as long as that don't stop suddenly. If they were going to have trouble with the motor or plane it would have happened earlier on the trip."

"When they got to the coast of Labrador their troubles were behind them. They had plenty of gasoline to go through, because my husband said he would not leave Labrador if there was any question of the gasoline supply being insufficient to reach Mount Evans."

"There's no need to worry—Bert said not to."

STILL URGES CARE OF PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Addressing the postal clerks of Atlanta, and their wives, in the Ansley hotel Sunday afternoon, Luther Still, candidate for the house of representatives from Fulton county, stressed the fact that Georgia must take adequate care of its schools and humanitarian institutions.

Mr. Still touched upon many points in his address, but particularly emphasized the fact that it is the duty of the state to consider its public schools, including the university, the technological school and state women's college. The tuberculosis sanatorium at Alto and the state hospital at Milledgeville were among the humanitarian institutions which were lauded by the speaker.

The labor leader was enthusiastically received by the postal employees and was roundly applauded at several points in his address.

stay at home and refuse to vote, it would not take much of a switch to throw it over to Hoover. An added complication is the virtual rejection of the candidacy of Governor Alfred E. Smith by the democratic leader in the state, Senator Furnifold M. Simmons, signed by the national committee without explanation.

Some democrats are alarmed about Alabama. At this stage, some democratic leaders there say they face a real fight. They are organizing an intensive active campaign which will be opened immediately after the Smith acceptance speech with a fusillade of speakers scurrying to all parts of the state for campaign appeals. The situation is complicated by doubt as to what part the state administration will play in the campaign. Governor Bibb Graves is known as a "regular" democrat, but he was elected as a sympathizer with the Ku Klux Klan. This organization is not so powerful as it once was. Frank P. Glass, Montgomery editor, says Hoover, the bolt movement in Alabama, while possessing some strength, is not serious and that many democrats now protesting loudly will get back into the fold and vote regular in the November election.

Texas Torn.

Texas is torn with factional dissension and is the one southern state which shows prominent defections in the regular democratic organization. The bolting democrats, who have their own organization and have opened headquarters in Dallas as "Hoover democrats" are led by V. A. Collins, a former state senator and one-time candidate for the democratic gubernatorial nomination. Prominent among those who say they will not vote for Smith is State Senator Thomas B. Love. Some other state office holders are included among the bolters, including C. C. Johnson, state highway commissioner and former Governor O. B. Colquitt.

Just recently, some 300 democratic state leaders met in convention at Austin, read the "bolters" but of the party, and prepared for an active fight. United News correspondents who have canvassed the situation there, say the bolting democrats are the party, that republicans will poll a vote larger than republicans normally do in Texas, but that Governor Smith will carry the state. Republicans, they point out, are not free from factional troubles, either, as a faction of Smith republicans has been organized.

Texas election laws complicate the situation, for the republicans get a vote of 100,000 or more for Hoover in November they will be forced by law to hold state primary elections in 1930, instead of nominating by convention. They had to do this once before when the gubernatorial bolt from "Ma" Ferguson to George Bute won the republican count over 100,000. These primary elections entail great expense and republican leaders were not noticeably sorry when the republican vote dropped below 100,000 in 1926.

Because of this factor some democrats believe republican leaders will grow less vociferous before November about carrying Texas for Hoover.

Some believe the present claims are made primarily to divert efforts from really doubtful states.

Florida and Georgia.

Florida has a live republican organization. Recently, the anti-union league and church organizations instituted an anti-Smith movement there. Democratic leaders, after a canvass of the situation, say it will stay democratic.

There was, immediately after the Houston convention, a threatening situation in Georgia. Republicans perfected an active organization. However, recently, democratic organization leaders have lined up for Smith, healed factional differences, and begun an active campaign. It is expected they will keep Georgia in line behind the Smith-Robinson ticket.

RASKOB URGES ALL CITIZENS TO VOTE

has led our legislative bodies into taking action in order to develop a greater vote. The principal measures in this line have been the various laws made by the states for "absentee voting." Forty-five of the forty-eight states have made provisions so that absentees from these states may cast their ballots.

For every one hundred votes cast for president in 1920, there were 96 who could vote but did not. This is no way to elect a president of the United States, who under our constitution, is given more power than any one human being in the world.

Remember, this campaign will be the most stirring in the history of American politics. There is no American who does not want to take part in it. In many instances here, the race has been very close. Under our electoral college system of selecting a president, one state may decide the result. In that state a few votes either way may determine the entire election. One man's vote is as good as another man's vote. The quality known as Americanism is demonstrated to a mathematical certainty at the polls. Your vote is valuable. Do not throw it away. If a debtor owed you money, and you were away on the due date, you would make arrangements for him to transmit your money to you wherever you may be. You can make a similar arrangement in regard to the vote.

Voting under the absentee voting laws is made simple and requires but little effort. Let your government hear from you no matter where you are on election day.

Importance of Registering.

The candidates will struggle incessantly in making an appeal for your vote. They are at least entitled to expect you to exercise your franchise. Strong men are running. Great issues fill the air. It will be up to you to pass judgment and you cannot do it if you fail to register. The American vote has a background of bloody sacrifice by the great Americans of all our wars. If you refuse to be a voteless, they have sacrificed, to that extent, in vain.

After a terrific struggle, the franchise was granted to the women of America. In the 1920 election, it is estimated that the women cast 37 per cent of the total vote, and 43 per cent of the women qualified to vote actually voted. In only a few of the states did the women cast 50 per cent or more of their voting strength.

The issues presented at the coming election will be of intense interest to the women of the land. The cost of living, employment, freedom of conscience, religious liberty and equal opportunity should attract a great majority of the women to register and to vote.

Every man and woman who votes and does not encourage the other members of their families to do likewise, only casts a portion of a vote. Working women have a vast interest at stake in the election. Governor Smith stands as the champion of human rights and welfare of the working women. Of no other accomplishment is he prouder than of the success attending his efforts in the state of New York to better the conditions of women in industry. As president, he would have a tremendous influence on national legislation towards the same end. I trust the women will appreciate his services in this respect by their registration and vote.

TOLERANCE URGED BY DR. C. B. WILMER

the pope of Rome to guide political life in a right direction would be."

Dr. Wilmer's Sermon.

"It is time to get back to first principles. This government is founded on separation of church and state and on liberty of religious convictions without fear or favor."

"Nor is there any doubt that this is but the working out in history of the teaching of Christ: 'Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's—and unto God those things that are God's.'"

"This separation does not mean that the secular, civil, authorities are absolved from the obligation of doing right; or that there should not be cooperation in a way between church and state for the good of mankind."

"It does not even mean that the church should not work for the realization of an ideal state, along its own lines."

"Church and state, separated at one point in history, are to meet at another point in history, like Peachtree and West Peachtree, separating at Baker street and meeting again at Pershing's point."

"The kingdom of this world is to become the kingdom of our God and of his Christ."

"For the Christ, 'Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's,' makes the performance of all duties to society and the government sacred."

"Human society should be the secular embodiment of the commandment of loving one's neighbor."

"Those who say that 'Religion and politics don't mix'—business and religion don't mix—are equally wrong with those who say that the church and politics, the church and business should mix."

"It is one thing to say that the principles of mathematics should govern, another to put the mathematicians in power."

"It is one thing to say that religion, in the sense of intelligent love to man flowing out of love of God to us and our love to Him, should inspire and guide all life; it is another thing to say that any body of religious people should officially and automatically declare that intelligent love is under given conditions.

"Christ Did Not Dictate."

"Christ himself did not dictate in the secular realm. When asked to interfere in the division of an estate, Christ's reply was: 'Who made Me a judge or a divider over you? Take heed and beware of covetousness; for a man's life consisteth not in the things that he possesseth.'"

"The division of the estate in question belonged to the courts. Of course, Christ waited a just decision, but he disclaimed any authority either to make or to enforce the right decision himself. That was left to others whose business it was."

"The reason for this separation of church and state would seem to be to give room for the development of specialists, experts, in each realm, with a view to cooperation."

"A statesman is not necessarily a wise counselor of souls; nor would every St. Francis be necessarily a dependable statesman."

"But while the church may not dictate to the state in the civic realm, nor the state to the church in the spiritual affairs, this does not shut out cooperation."

"One of the church's constant temptations seems to be to desert the realm of the spiritual and to rely for reliance on the policeman. The other is to concentrate on the individual soul and stop there."

Here Dr. Wilmer took up specific problems in the campaign, including religious freedom and the prohibition of a legal right, as he certainly has a legal right, to be a Roman catholic, life-long, Protestant, agnostic, or atheist, without prejudice to his citizenship.

As to whether a Roman catholic president would be or might be subject to political dictation by the bishop of Rome, each voter must make up his own mind on the evidence and without hate or prejudice."

"One important question is: Even supposing that the attitude of that church is not, theoretically satisfactory and thoroughly consistent with democratic principles, whether we have not here, in broad-minded America, an opportunity to work out a solution of this vexed question by cooperation with those Roman catholics who are loyal patriots."

"A very serious question is whether we are not at present in greater danger in this country from the opposite end; from protestant violence, hatred and prejudice. I do not refer to reasoned opinions."

"The attempt of religious bodies and religious leaders to 'bulldoze' church members into compliance with their political opinions is worse than the attempt of a responsible person like the bishop of Rome to guide political life in a right direction would be. The worst possible theocracy is that of a religious mob."

"Prohibition is one method out of many of dealing with the evils of liquor drinking and the liquor traffic."

"The chief contribution the church can make is the cultivation of spirituality and self-control. The best legal method for society as a whole is an exceedingly difficult question on which equally sincere and devoted Christians may differ."

"The nominee will not make a speech at Sea Girt. He feels that the strain

BROOKHAVEN PASTOR AT LIBERTY ON BOND

Decatur, Ga., August 19.—(Special.)—The Rev. H. C. Johnson, pastor of the Brookhaven Baptist church, who was arrested Saturday during the hearing in justice of peace court of the recent prayer-meeting disturbance between opposing factions of the church, was released under bond as was Mrs. W. A. Gilbert, member of the church.

Both the pastor and Mrs. Gilbert were arrested following their testimony in the trial of Ernest Gaines and J. E. Echols, charged by W. A. Gilbert with assault and battery in connection with the church fracas last Wednesday night. Rev. Johnson was charged with assault and battery, interfering with an officer. Mrs. Gilbert was charged with assault and battery.

Each announced that they would waive preliminary hearing when their case is called before Justice of the Peace C. H. Livsey this week and would push the case through higher courts.

County Policeman Oscar Rowell, charged in warrants with pointing a gun at another and with profanity in public, will also face hearing sometime this week. The officer is likewise a member of the church, whose congregation, it was brought out in court Saturday, was split over the occupancy of the pulpit by Rev. Johnson.

anyhow," Mix lamented. "I stood first on one foot and then on the other. Someone always takes me for a sap. That's what Morrissey did last night."

"He kept picking on me all evening. He kept following me around and wanting a fight."

At last, when Mix prepared to leave the party, Morrissey, the actor said, "took a sock at me, and that's more than any man has to take."

"I knocked him down and he skidded along the sidewalk quite a ways. 'I may not be much socially, but I sure don't go for lower class parties wearing my spurs and boots,' he added, in denying that he had kicked Morrissey with his "trick boots."

Mix said he was sorry it had happened and declared he hadn't taken a drink at the party.

A physician took five stitches in Morrissey's head.

"Midgie" Miller, Morrissey's wife, suffered based knock on the scapula, in addition to the blackened eye.

Morrissey said the case has not been closed.

Among those reported present at the party were Lew Cody, Bess Meredith, Rube Wolfe, the orchestra leader, and his wife, and Marco Hellman, prominent banker.

ALBANY THROGGED FOR SMITH SPEECH

citizens of Albany not to bring their cars downtown on Wednesday night in order to relieve the congestion caused by thousands of automobiles from out of the city.

Red Cross stations will be set up, and ambulances will stand ready for any emergency. A detail of 700 state police troopers will police the crowd. With a special squad of out-of-town detectives to watch for pickpockets. Major John A. Warner, son-in-law of Governor Smith and head of the state police, will have charge of police arrangements.

Special arrangements have been made for the 280 newspaper correspondents expected here for the notification. Photographers also will have every facility for making pictures. They will occupy a special platform before the stand from which Governor Smith will make his address and where will sit party dignitaries. This platform is built back of a statue of General Phillips Sheridan, civil war hero, which stands before the capitol steps.

Hotels Jammed.

Hotels will be jammed, and hotel managers here are reserving rooms in Troy and other nearby cities to accommodate the overflow crowd. Cots are being utilized. Rooms in private homes here are being commandeered.

Many special trains will leave here immediately after the notification to take the visitors back to New York. Hudson river boats will wait at the dock and take their crowds back on the night trip to New York. Many thus will get out of town that night, but thousands will remain over until the next day.

Governor Smith will leave here Thursday for a mammoth political rally and national guard review at Sea Girt, N. J., stopping over in New York Thursday night. He will go from Sea Girt to Syracuse for the state fair there the following week, where he will make a non-political speech, and then will return to Albany.

The nominee will not make a speech at Sea Girt. He feels that the strain upon his throat of two lengthy speeches in the open air so close together would be too severe, and he feels that the occasion would call for a long address, if he made any.

Colored Voters Furnish Victory Margin to G.O.P.

Washington, August 19.—(United News.)—From 1888 to 1920 only one republican presidential candidate, Theodore Roosevelt, received enough white votes to elect him, the others receiving their majorities from negro voters, Henry Minor, of Mississippi, former democratic national committeeman, says in a history of the democratic party about to be published.

The history denies the charges of anti-Smith democrats that Tammany was responsible for Cleveland's defeat in 1888, saying he ran ahead of Tammany's candidate for mayor. Minor blames Cleveland's defeat that year on the former Kaiser Wilhelm, charging that, due to friction between the United States and Germany over Samoa, the German vote in America went republican.

"Enough democrats supported Roosevelt in 1904 to give him, probably, a narrow white majority," Minor says. "Seymour in 1868 received more white votes than Grant. Tilden received a million more white votes than Hayes. Hancock and Cleveland received the support of hundreds of thousands more white votes than their opponents. Even the half million gold democrats voting for McKinley in 1896 failed to give him a majority equal to the colored vote of the nation, a vote always practically solid for the republican candidate. In the thirteen presidential elections from 1868 to 1916 the col-

VISCOUNT HALDANE DIES IN SCOTLAND

Cloven, Perthshire, Scotland, August 19.—(AP)—Viscount Haldane, of Cloven, 72, equally famous as philosopher and statesman, and war minister in one of the most critical periods in British history, died today after a long illness. Despite his famous declaration that "Germany is my spiritual home," which finally forced his retirement from the British cabinet, Lord Haldane is credited with the reorganization of the British army that took place between the years 1905 and 1914 and permitted Great Britain to send a strong expeditionary force to France within a few days after the great war began.

It was his initiative that brought about a revision of the British general staff and the creation of a new army or "territorials," although to accomplish his purpose he had to fight the opposition of his own political party and that of some of his colleagues in the Asquith ministry.

STEPHENS ON TOLERANCE.

If Alexander H. Stephens, one of the greatest of Georgians and soundest of our democratic leaders since the declaration of statehood, were living today, what would he say as to the existing movement of so called democrats to disintegrate the party from within, because of religious prejudice and intolerance?

The only fair and just conclusion must be gathered from what he did say when precisely the same situation existed before the war between the states.

Then the "Know-Nothing party" flourished its insidious creed of bigotry, and incited rebellion and even riot in the south in its attack upon the constitutional guarantee of religious freedom.

That black page in the south's history was in the 50's.

Few people living today recall the activities of the "Know-Nothing party" except by history. But it left its stain and its stigma.

At that time Alexander H. Stephens was one of the great Georgia triumvirate that largely shaped by virile leadership the affairs of the Empire democratic state of the south that was being storm-tossed by a misguided group, and by its mobilization of ignorance and prejudice.

During the democratic campaign of 1856 he delivered a memorable address firmly sustaining the religious freedom provision of the federal constitution, presenting an unanswerable argument in favor of tolerance.

"In America every citizen, whether he may be born, or whatever may be his religion, is to be measured and weighed in the civil scales according to his merits and conduct, deserts and worth."

Those were his words, followed by a masterful argument in opposition to "mixing religion and politics," and in the interest of the party that had been the sustaining strength of the south, and the house of refuge, ten years later, under the shelter of which the white people of the south escaped from negro domination, and from laws enforced by "carpet baggers" with federal bayonets at their back.

In both branches of congress, as governor, and as vice president of the Confederacy, his great mind, and unsullied statesmanship, stood out conspicuously as a southerner who ranked with the most powerful leaders of the nation.

His statue, one of Georgia's quota of two, is in the hall of fame in the nation's capitol by a choice of the people as one of Georgia's greatest men.

We are publishing elsewhere his address of 1856 against religious intolerance.

If he had made it today, 72 years later, under conditions that exist, it would meet the situation as it did in those days, when practically the same conditions prevailed.

All of the noise now being made by the democratic insurgents is incited by religious prejudice. The party mutineers dare not attack the federal constitution. They hide behind the prohibition issue as a smoke screen.

The words of Alexander H. Stephens, delivered in 1856, ring today, from the pages of history, as a clarion call to duty, to honor and to fundamental obligation.

ELECTRICAL TRADE SHOW.

The first exclusive electrical trade show ever held in the world will draw thousands of dealers and home builders to New York in October. The exhibition will be assembled in the Grand Central Palace, and it will be opened on October 17, continuing for three days.

A unique feature will be the individual displays made by manufacturers, distributors and local dealers from all the larger cities of the United States, and from the cities of Canada and Europe.

Among the larger displays will be that of the Georgia Power company. This new undertaking is an expansion on a national basis of the annual electrical show, with the first three days devoted exclusively to the trade. It will then be followed by seven days of the usual national electrical exposition.

No industry, hinged largely upon engineering science, has made so much progress in the past few years as commercialized electricity. Thousands of homes are equipped with electrical appliances not only for lighting and heating but for cooking, laundrying, churning and every conceivable household device to save time, labor, and to make the home more comfortable and inviting.

Rural electrification is making tremendous progress. In Georgia thousands of farms are today electrified, and in every instance there is an atmosphere of prosperity and happiness.

RASKOB URGES VOTING DUTY.

Democratic Chairman Raskob, in the first formal statement on the presidential campaign—published in the news columns today—makes an earnest plea for a full or representative vote in the November general elections.

He makes only a brief reference to the democratic candidate in citing his record as the champion of human rights and welfare of the working women, urging that they do not neglect so important an obligation as their elective franchise.

In his appeal to the people to understand and exercise their duty as citizens in a government of the people, he does not draw party lines. It is directed to the republican voters, men and women, as vigorously and as forcefully, as to the democratic men and women.

It is a lamentable fact that the potential vote of this country, as registered, rarely exceeds 25 per cent, and the total vote in 1924 was only 50 per cent, in round figures, of the total registration.

It is estimated that there will be 56,000,000 qualified voters this year. If only three out of four of the voters should go to the polls the result of the balloting would be representative.

America is far behind the other republics of the world in the interest shown in elections, although this was the first of the great republics established. Germany, to illustrate, has only one half of the population of the United States, and yet there were 2,000,000 more votes cast in the last general election in that republic than in this country in 1924.

Mr. Raskob refers to the fact, which deserves to be impressed into the minds of every adult, that this cannot be a government of all the people by 50 per cent of the people. Whatever party affiliation one may have, it is the duty of every citizen qualified to vote to register, and cast a ballot at the November polls.

THE UNIVERSITY LOAN FUND.

The student loan fund at the university, which began with a nucleus of $50,000 established by the late Joseph E. Brown in 1883, has now grown, by additional donations, and accretions, to $434,556.67.

Among the additions are the Denmark, Churchill, Dawson, Comer and Hurt funds, the latter consisting of lands yet to be converted into cash.

Since 1883 a total of 1,265 students have been educated through these funds. Otherwise most of these young men and women could never have received a college education.

This gross fund of nearly half a million dollars is a direct, inescapable challenge to Georgia to do her part in the great work that these philanthropists have made possible.

Not one dollar of this fund can be used for any additions or improvements, or in maintenance.

The money must be used specifically as loans to worthy young men and women who seek college education—but who have not the means otherwise available to meet the expenses, however nominal.

The legislature should meet the issue squarely. Every institution in the university system is in need of more buildings, more equipment, more maintenance. The high schools and junior colleges are turning out 15,000 and more boys and girls annually, and a majority of them earnestly wish to complete their education, for services in special lines of building activities, in the professions, as teachers, in economics, etc. It is a day of vocational training, of specialization.

In a few weeks the members of the forthcoming assembly will be nominated, which is equivalent to election. The coordination and expansion of the state's educational system should be a paramount pledge of every successful candidate.

The policyholders of the International Life Insurance company are waiting: "Hark from the Toombs a doeful sound."

This is the first time in history that the democratic donkey has broken into a rodeo.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASEN

Strange Statue

There is still another grievance connected with the new Louvain library building, the magnificent structure erected by William Warren. And it is the curious fact that Mgr. Ladeuze, the rector of the Catholic university who opposed the inscription about the type worshiper French and Belgian "Teutonic" furor, should have countenanced the statue that stands over the main entrance. This piece of sculpture, the gift of a wealthy French woman, represents the Virgin and Child. But a curious Virgin it is. On her head she wears a steel helmet of the type worn by French and Belgian troops during the war. In the one hand she carries the child and in the other . . . a long sword. It is difficult to see how more of a mockery of the Christian idea of the Mater Dolorosa, full of grace and goodness, than linked with an instrument of slaughter, a disgrace and a blot upon the Flemish city, though, perhaps, the most Belgicized of all, and the Flemish press is now launching some vigorous protests.

The inscription for it kept quiet or sided with the rector against Mr. Warren. But with this shocking statue, the opposition to the library among a very religious people, whose motto is: "All for Flanders. Flanders for Christ." The Louvain statue is called the "Mother of the Virgin." "Do Schelde" of Antwerp writes the "Standard of the same city talks about 'Our Lady of the Mailed Corps' as a disgrace and a blot upon the sentiments of the Flemish people.

Clemenceau's Daughter

M. Clemenceau's daughter has written a book on French country life in which an intimate picture of her disheveled father is given. It is a glimpse of the private Clemenceau as a sportsman in the process of decaying larks by a moving mirror and then dissolving into a hazy picture of a father to picture him out after the flights of 20 or 30 feet wide had to be crossed with a jumping and a running. Clemenceau to the manner born, could do this easily; but his guests from Paris became casualties. They were an odd family of people. Clemenceau was none drunk wine, "a coarse beverage, fit only for peasants," but they were great connoisseurs of water, and the grange was always served from one particular well, one aunt from a spring, and another from a well of her own. Yet another of these was the evening before the grandfather also taboos in his kitchen garden—which included onions and "white" Colognes. "I have seen," he says, "tarragon in saucy, citron and vanilla in cakes and creams." Yet French they were, and the pale of the Clemenceaus contrived, so Madame Jacqueline testifies, the most delicious cookery. She shows us the "Tiger" playing, as clown in the evening before his children and a father who never came home without an inexhaustible bag of presents for everybody.

Solitary Confinement.

"Segregatione cellulare" is the fascist punishment for political crimes and misdemeanors. It consists in having a man locked up in a narrow, windowless cell, where he is never permitted to leave until his sentence is completed. The so-called "hygienic accommodation" of 40 minutes a day, according to the rules, is never permitted to leave until his sentence is completed. The so-called "hygienic accommodation" of 40 minutes a day, according to the rules, is never permitted to leave until his sentence is completed. The so-called "hygienic accommodation" of 40 minutes a day, according to the rules, is never permitted to leave until his sentence is completed.

It is right that this should be done. Ours would be a government of chaos if laws were not enforced. A small offense, in maintaining law and order, cannot be overlooked any more than a large offense. Prohibition is not enforced. Hence the flood tide of insubordination and crime.

But the abuses in "franking mail" are so serious that it would be difficult to estimate the expense it imposes upon the taxpayers of this country annually.

A million dollars, say! That wouldn't even approximate it.

During general election, members of congress—not all, but far too many—abuse this privilege in flooding their states and districts with electioneering propaganda, probably inserted into the Congressional Record by the deceptive custom of "extending remarks," which is also little less than a scandal in its practice.

The mails out of Washington are not only congested with postage-free "speeches," but with books and bulletins, and other "remembrances" for the "dear constituents" and their "members"—all at the taxpayers' expense, including the paper, printing, and other cumulative costs.

The whole bill that is annually imposed upon the taxpayers for the selfish purposes is so staggering that the act, if known, would shock the nation.

Tons of such propaganda, used entirely for selfish political purposes, go out of Washington daily—particularly in election years.

On the idea that those opposed to the democratic candidate wish to win only on the merits of their cause I suggest that those who are disposed to rely on representations to the effect that members of the Knights of Columbus take an oath of disloyalty to the United States, read one of Roy Crane, plaintiff in error, vs. State of Oklahoma, 14 Okla. RADIO-ING THE AIR WAVES

BY THE DIAL TWIST.

"A Hunting Scene" by Bucalossi, in which he heard the crackling of whips, dogs barking, and all the bustle and commotion of the occasion, will be played by the Trail Blazers during the Riverside Hour to be broadcast through WSB and the NBC system at 7 o'clock tonight.

The band will continue its program with Wagner's "Nibelungen March," Poldini's well-known "Dancing Doll," and a Spanish dance "Malagueña," by Moszkowski. Strauss' "Louisiana Lullaby" and "In My Bouquet of Memories" will be sung by a male quartet. The complete program for this broadcast follows:

Spirit of Progress March (Rish)—Band. A Hunting Scene (Bucalossi)—Band. Louisiana Lullaby (Strauss)—Quartet. Nibelungen March (Wagner)—Band. Dancing Doll (Poldini)—Band. Malagueña (Moszkowski)—Band. In My Bouquet of Memories (Art)—Quartet.

Eyes That Love (Romberg)—Band. Spirit of Progress March (Rish)—Band. Scenes from the General Motors Family party to be broadcast over WSB and the NBC system tonight, will be held in France. This program goes on the air at 7:30 o'clock. With the Cadillac division of General Motors as host, the broadcast will feature Everett Marshall, baritone, as guest artist, and a novelty orchestra under the direction of Rodrick Graham.

The program to be broadcast from the Roxy theater at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon will feature the most popular musical scores of Louis Hirsch, the American composer of comic operas. They will be heard over WSB and the associated stations of the NBC.

Although Louis Hirsch stands among the most prominent of popular composers, his music contains a distinct element of the classical due, perhaps, to the fact that his early training was concerned only with higher forms of musical composition. Among his operettas, the best known, and those that will be represented in Monday's program, are "Going Up," "The Rainbow Girl," "Oh, My Dear," "The O'Brien Girl," and "The Grass Widow." The individual selections to be broadcast are: "I Want a Baby," "Kiss Me," "Tinkle Toe," "Going Up," "My Rainbow Girl," "I Wonder Where the Song of Love," "Hello Frisco," "Summertime," and others that have come down as the representatives of this talented composer.

An additional feature of the program on Monday evening will be Herbert's "Ninth of the Southern Moon," sung by Dorothea Edwards, sister of Gus Edwards, the famous comedian. Her song will be followed by "Wanted," which will be offered by Gladys Rice, and Deane Moore, who makes his radio debut with Roxy's "gang," will sing "Rain or Shine," the song hit from the musical revue of the same name.

The Roxy String ensemble, composed of members of the first class of the Roxy Symphony orchestra, will play Logan's "Pale Moon," arranged by Leo Russo. The members of the quartet are Yasha Bunchuk, cellist; Henri Nowo, first violin; Orazi Julier, second violin; and Max Pilikoff, viola.

The series of "get acquainted" programs which the Sears-Roebuck agricultural foundation has been sponsoring for the past week over WSB from 10:10 to 10:30 a. m., will continue for another six days until the return of Mrs. K. F. Wheeler, home advisor of the foundation. The foremost colleges in Georgia are being represented and their broadcasts are proving very popular.

This week the foundation will present programs by the Georgia State College for Women, Georgia State Teachers college, Columbia seminary and Brenau. The G. S. C. W. program will consist of a play by George Frame Brown, author and producer of the program. Experienced actors make up the supporting company, and a ten-piece orchestra will supply village favorites.

The sponsor of "Real Folks" is the Chesbrough Manufacturing company.

Another chapter in the adventures of Richard Burke, American owner of the South American cafe, El Tamaris, his star attraction, is his crack tango orchestra will be broadcast through WSB and the NBC system at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

Richard Burke, who has acquired the popular rendezvous through the will of Senor Fernandez, his benefactor, Colette, the French dancer in the cafe, has deeply impressed some American visitors, who now are sponsoring an American tour by Colette and the tango orchestra from the cafe.

Orchestra selections during the period will be played under the direction of Hugo Mariani.

The program details follow:

El Tamaris. Orchestra. Rosalinda. Soprano Solo. Garcia La Caba del italiano. Orchestra. Carranza. Moriche-Monendes. El Amor es la Vida. Orchestra. Accordion Solo. Rosa Marchetti. En la Campina. Soprano and Tenor Duo. Choro Cabole. Orchestra.

"Pagliacci," Leoncavallo's popular opera, will be sung in English by the United Opera company at 7 o'clock tonight, August 20, through the Columbia Broadcasting System. This will be the second presentation by the United Opera company of this opera.

It was given in English a number of weeks ago and was so well liked, that it is being repeated at this time.

"Pagliacci" was written by Leoncavallo in what might be termed a fit of temper. It took but five months to complete and was submitted in the same prize contest won by Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana." It is believed it lost the prize because it was in two acts instead of the required one.

Most everyone is acquainted with the story of the jealous Canio, head of a group of traveling players, in Italy, who discovers Nedda, his wife in the arms of Silvio, planning an elopement. Nedda having been betrayed by Tonio, a hunchback clown and her scorned lover. It so happens that that night the players give a performance based on the same situation, with Canio playing the jealous husband and Nedda in the part of his wife. She happens to use in the play a phrase he overheard her speak to Silvio that afternoon, and this so enrages Canio that he stabs her, hoping she will cry the name of her lover.

Nedda calls for Silvio, who comes to her aid from his seat in the audience. Canio, now in a rage, slays Silvio with the same dagger that killed Nedda. The play closes with Canio giving himself up to justice with Dante's classic phrase, "The comedy is finished."

Mixed and male quartets will be heard with the capitolators in their broadcast through the Columbia System at 8 o'clock tonight.

The male quartet is to sing "The Beetle and the Flower" by Weitz, "Noche de San Juan," "The Mother of Mine," and the mixed quartet will be heard in "Annie Laurie," arranged by Scott Potter. Frank Croxton, bass, is the vocal soloist of the program. He will sing Lily Strickland's "Lindy Lou."

As their share of the program The Capitolators offer 13 popular numbers, amongst which are "Jealousy," "Muddy Water," "Thou Swell," "My Gal Sal," and "Somebody's Eyes."

"A population of 500,000 by 1932" is Atlanta's slogan. Let's all pull together for a Greater Atlanta.

The Constitution's Weekly Business Review

EDITED BY M. D. GLEASON

There is hardly a need or a want that cannot be filled in Atlanta's stores and factories.

Storage Man Calls Attention To Busy Moving Day Ahead

We are now at the season of the year, says Harry Zaban, manager of the Zaban Storage company, when a great many people will move from one location to another.

While September 1 is usually considered the biggest day of the year for moving around Atlanta, continued Mr. Zaban, September the first this year comes on Saturday and Monday the third is Labor day and a circus is in town that day. All of this means that traffic will be very heavy in downtown Atlanta and will cause considerable delays in moving furniture from one place to another on that day.

The wise plan for all those who can do so is to move any time between now and the first and then they will not have to work on Sunday, the second of September, in setting their household effects. Mr. Zaban also calls attention that from all the inside information he has gathered, indications are that this will be the

Several New Bridges Being Built in Southern States

A few years ago, if a story appeared in one of the Atlanta papers stating that a large bridge was to be built in some southern state outside of Georgia, it would receive small notice here as the news value would not be considered important enough to give the matter very much space. It was taken for granted that few people living in or around Atlanta would ever travel so far by road and therefore they would not be interested very much in any kind of a distant road bridge.

WEST END CITIZENS TO DISCUSS PLANS FOR GOLF COURSE

The regular monthly meeting of the West End Business Men's club will be held at 8 o'clock tonight near the intersection of Lee and Gordon streets. A feature of the meeting will be a discussion of the proposed new John A. White municipal golf course which is soon to be erected on the right of Cascade avenue.

Don't Expose Your Property to Loss

If you were carrying $10,000 in cash in your machine, you'd want to have it insured.

But are you not driving your machine with anywhere from $1,000 to $25,000 of your property exposed?

If you injure a man, and he obtains a judgment verdict against you, you're got to pay it.

If you haven't the cash, your property can be sold to get it. Don't risk your house, your bank account, your business. Let a Travelers Automobile Policy stand between your worldly goods and the result of that possible accident.

ALL INDICATIONS POINT TO HIGHER PRICES FOR COAL

T. A. Hinson, a McDaniel street coal dealer, declares indications are that the price of coal will advance in the near future in this part of the country.

"I have been in the coal business many years," said Mr. Hinson, "and I never remember seeing so many people put off so late as this buying their winter coal. August is almost gone and comparatively few people have taken advantage of the low summer prices all dealers have had on during the summer. This means that coal that ordinarily should have been in the customer's bins is still in the dealer's yards and with the fall days but a few days away, everybody will soon want coal at the same time."

"I do not wish to infer that I have not had a reasonable good summer business, but when you consider how fast the population in Atlanta is increasing, it seems that everybody is waiting for the first cold snap to force them to buy coal in a hurry. They can get it for less now and avoid subjecting their loved ones to uncomfortable days and nights."

When asked about his own brand of coal, Mr. Hinson stated his Royal Blue coal has been giving his regular customers splendid satisfaction for many years, on account of it being in heat and low in ash, and is considered by the best authorities as one of the best grades of coal to come to the Atlanta territory.

Speaking about his delivery service, Mr. Hinson said anyone in or around Atlanta who will give him a ring at Main 1882 and order one or more tons as a trial order will, he feels sure, be pleased with prompt deliveries and good coal.

Alaska Using Planes.

Washington, August 19.—(United News)—Airlines are replacing dog teams as a means of transportation through the upper reaches of Alaska. Decreased use of the airplane in Alaska has reduced the demand for dried salmon, a staple food for dog teams, the bureau of fisheries reported today.

Joseph Lietch Sees Great Future for His Community

What promises to be one of the busiest community centers around Atlanta is Moreland avenue, where Flat Shoals avenue intersects and Fair street crosses.

Only a few months ago these corners were but wide places in a well traveled highway, but during the past few months more than a dozen splendid business places have been put up. As it is in a fast growing part of Atlanta, the merchants there see years of good business ahead of them.

Probably one of the liveliest of them all is the business life of his community is J. W. Lietch, who conducts a department store for automobile owners and drivers. He sells anything a motorist needs for an American-made car and renders all kinds of service that a driver may need, either at his big station or out on the road.

In his tire department he features Diamond tires and says "gray-haired men of today" knew of the good qualities of this firm's tires when they rode bicycles. Mr. Lietch says that when the automobile came in and took the place of bicycles, the makers of Diamond tires were a well equipped, going organization and one of the first in this country to

Safeguard Your Health By Drinking Pure Water

No well informed person can, these days, be ignorant of the opinion among physicians and scientists that the habit of drinking water regularly and freely, especially in the spring, summer and fall, is one of it not the biggest factor in promoting health. You see this truth brought out everywhere constantly. But one is always advised to drink pure water, and if there is any organic disorder present, a water suited to that particular condition should be used.

Whatever the disorder may be, the probability is that the Pure Water company, exclusive dealers in drinking, mineral and commercial waters, can furnish the water best suited. Notwithstanding the fact that their main and branch plants and bottling houses are continually inspected and approved by health authorities, they considered the best of their kind in Georgia from a sanitary standpoint, each of the several waters produced is subjected to a chemical analysis each month, and are therefore recommended by physicians.

But it is not a matter of wisdom to wait until one is "out of order" and seek advice of a physician. Why not avoid this by making an investigation and try one of these well-known waters? If this is done, you will never be satisfied with ordinary water again, and will quickly see the difference in your feeling.

Among these waters are Pure

STEAMER BELIEVED LOST WITH 14 MEN

Panama City, Panama, August 19.—(AP)—Reports that the steamer William S. McKenney was lost with 14 men during a storm off the California coast, gained credence here today when the motor ship Santos, of the Johnson line, arrived and reported losing Second Officer Karl Taconson, who was washed overboard during a heavy sea off the California coast.

The accident occurred August 9 about midnight and as the second officer's presence on the deck was unknown to the others of the crew, he was not missed for sometime. The fury of the elements was so great the captain said, that the ship's engines had to be stopped, and the Santos drifted until the storm abated the next day. Though showing signs of her battle with the storm, the Santos was not sufficiently damaged to prevent continuing the voyage to Hull, England.

RIVER FLOOD CREST PASSES RICHMOND

Richmond, Va., August 19.—(AP)—The James river, which for the past week has been on a rampage, overflowing its banks and inundating land that has been high and dry for three years, began to recede today and early tonight was at the 15-foot stage and going down at the rate of 6 inches an hour, the local weather bureau announced. The crest at Richmond was reached about 2 o'clock this morning when the waters were at the 17 and a half foot level. The James remained at this height for six hours before the recession set in. Although the high water flooded the lower section of Dock street and drove residents along the river bank in this vicinity to seek higher ground, the pumps at the Shockoe flood protection plant kept the rise from reaching Cary and Main streets. Reports from other parts of the state affected by high waters showed conditions were rapidly improving and that no great damage has been done to highways and bridges.

Central of Georgia Clerks in Savannah For Annual Convention

Savannah, Ga., August 19.—(AP)—Between 1,500 and 1,800 members of the clerks' organization of the Central of Georgia railway were gathering in Savannah today for the annual convention and picnic to be held at Tybee tomorrow. The invited guests include Charles H. Markham and L. A. Downs, of the Illinois Central railway, and all officials of the Central of Georgia railway.

HUNT FOR MISSING PUSHED IN NORTH

Rome, August 19.—(United News.) With scarcely more than two weeks remaining before the arctic midnight sun begins to wane and finally turn the polar regions into a continually frozen night, efforts are being rushed to reach the still missing members of the dirigible Italia's crew and those lost during the recent rescue operations.

This is the second attempt which has far been made to reach the Italia men carried off in the envelope of the dirigible after the crash started, it was announced officially here today. The rescue ship Braganza has departed from King's Bay for northeast Spitzbergen with two light seaplanes on board, which will systematically cover the district eastward and northward of Cape Leigh Smith from the air, while searching parties will cover the northern coast of Northeast Land. Likewise, efforts are being made to find Captain Ronld Amundsen and his crew of the French airplane, piloted by Rene Guilband, which started out to search for General Umberto Nobile's camp on the arctic wastes June 18. The plane has not been heard from since.

The Danish government has placed the polar ship Gustav Holm at the disposal of the French government to assist in the search for the French airplane party. The ship at present is patrolling the east coast of Greenland.

U.S. Leads World In Preparedness For Chemical War

Evanston, Ill., August 19.—(AP)—The United States is better equipped industrially than any other nation in the world to fight a chemical war, H. Edmund Bullis, executive secretary of the National Association for Chemical Defense, stated today at the close of the American Chemical Society institute at Northwestern university.

The world war proved that chemical weapons are the most effective, the least expensive, and at the same time the most humane weapons that have yet been developed, he said. Bullis predicted chemical and gases will be used "in that war of the future, even though a treaty might be ratified prohibiting the use of gas in warfare." The probability of a breach of treaty becomes greater as the effectiveness of the weapon increases, he said.

"History shows that the advent of each new weapon from the cross bow to the musket," he stated, "has always met with opposition, but that these new weapons, when effective, have always been accepted. It also shows that these nations who have failed to realize the value of new weapons have generally suffered because of this failure."

Bullis added that the Chemical Defense association believes danger to this country lies in the fact the general public places reliance in exaggerated and incorrect statements as to the horrors of gas in warfare. "Many of our best citizens," he said, "believe war will be outlawed so it is not essential for our country to be thoroughly informed regarding the development in the use of gas in warfare and how best to combat it. We have outlawed crime, but we control crime by keeping our police forces prepared with the most efficient weapons. Dr. Frank C. Whitmore, head of the department of chemistry at Northwestern university and director of the American Chemical Society institute, which just closed a four weeks' session, announced tonight that more than 600 scientists from all over the world were in attendance. They came from 35 states and from Scotland, Canada, Italy and the Philippines.

HOOVER 'BETRAYAL' KEENLY RESENTED ALONG MISSISSIPPI

New York, August 19.—(AP)—Agrarian relief and flood control are the major campaign issues in the Mississippi valley, Congressman William A. Oldfield, Arkansas, said today on his arrival at democratic national headquarters to assume his duties as a member of the advisory committee.

"There are two vital problems in the Mississippi valley," he declared, "and the resentment of the farmers in that region toward Hoover has not been softened. Nor are the people of the region satisfied with the course he followed on flood control."

"They expected Mr. Hoover to stand with them. Instead, he went over to the side of President Coolidge when the president insisted that the affected communities be compelled to pay a part of flood control. They pay in a sense, that Mr. Hoover betrayed them."

Mr. Oldfield, who was renominated for his eleventh consecutive term in the lower house at his state's primary election, said his party plans a vigorous campaign to capture the house.

"I am confident we will capture many districts now represented by republicans," he said. "To control the house we need but one out of ten of the seats now occupied by republicans, and I believe we will do better than that."

Winter Park, Fla., August 19.—(AP)—Resignation of Dr. George Carothers as dean of Rollins college to become professor of education at the University of Michigan was announced today by President Hamilton Holt. A reorganization of the office of dean by dividing the executive duties between a dean of men and a dean of women also was announced by Dr. Holt.

Professor Winslow S. Anderson, who was professor of chemistry at Rollins during 1921-22, has been named dean of men and Mrs. Ada Collins Holme, a graduate of Smith college and Columbia university, has been chosen dean of women.

HUERTA RUMORED NEXT PRESIDENT FOR MEXICANS

Los Angeles, August 19.—(AP)—The Examiner says that reports current in Spanish-American circles indicate that Adolfo de la Huerta, formerly provisional president of Mexico, and for the last four years a political exile in Los Angeles, may become the provisional president of his native land when President Plutarco Calles' term expires in December.

A group of friends of both the Calles government and the De la Huerta faction are said to have approached both leaders in an attempt to settle differences existing during the last four years. The article says that negotiations are reported to have been so successful that De la Huerta and his exiled companions in Los Angeles are considering returning to Mexico. The chief reason given for De la Huerta's quitting his native land was his personal as well as political enmity for the late General Alvaro Obregon, while between himself and Calles during the last four years there have existed only political differences.

Vijdan Platt, treasurer of the Mexican railway, and a close political adviser of Calles, was in Los Angeles today. De la Huerta was quoted as declaring that he had not received communications from Calles and that he had not had any conversation with Platt. The former provisional president refused, however, to say whether friends of his and the Calles government have been attempting to reconcile their differences.

The open road

SUPPOSE you came suddenly upon two roads. One straight, well-trodden . . . the other thin and twisting off into undergrowth. If you didn't want to arrive at any place in particular, you might choose the latter. But not otherwise.

Before you, as buyer, run two roads. One is the road of knowledge of an advertised product. Thousands use it. There's no mystery about it, no doubting, nothing hidden. It leads the way definitely to a fountain pen, a floor wax, a tooth-paste that will give you satisfaction. When you use an advertisement, you use an open road.

When you don't use advertisements, you go the doubtful road. You have only hazy knowledge of the product ahead. No trade-mark or name to depend upon guides you. The result may or may not be worth the effort. You don't know.

Read the advertisements. Anything widely advertised—breakfast food, hammer, hair tonic—has proved itself good by advertising.

The Taming of Elizabeth

By WINIFRED BOGGS

SYNOPSIS.

The young Elizabeth is the adopted daughter of the late Mrs. W. H. Darcy. When she is four years old she runs away from home to avoid punishment for getting into mischief. She is brought home promptly by a neighbor, Miss Smiley.

At 12, Elizabeth runs away again, this time from school and to the home of her Aunt Dolly, in London. Dolly, who is almost as highly as the young Elizabeth, sympathizes with her niece, much to the irritation of her stepson, Stephen Whitty.

After the death of her parents Elizabeth goes to live with her aunt. During the war they keep themselves busy and also amused by performing in amateur theatricals for the benefit of wounded soldiers. Stephen, home on leave, is asked by his stepmother to bring Mark Lennox, a young playwright, to one of their performances.

Shortly after the end of the war Mrs. Whitty dies suddenly in Brighton, and Elizabeth learns to her consternation that her aunt had left her the money and left her by her husband, and had also disposed of some of Stephen's inheritance as well. Afraid to face Stephen after this revelation, Elizabeth decides to go to Mark Lennox in London and ask him to get her a job on the stage. Stephen finds her with Mark and, although his business has failed, he offers to help her. She refuses his help and advice, and takes a part in Mark's new play.

On the opening night she acts stage fright and runs off, leaving an understudy to take over her part. Miss Smiley, who happens to be in London visiting her cousin, Mrs. White, sees Elizabeth on the street and takes her to Mrs. White's home. The latter offers her a job as cook and Elizabeth accepts. But when she fails in this job, too, and then lands a post as companion to an old lady in the home of Julia Vestington, the old lady's grandnephew, makes all the arrangements with Elizabeth.

Stephen arrives with his cousin, William Whitty, to take over the management of the latter's business. Elizabeth grows fond of Mrs. Vestington, who shows attention upon her young companion, but the girl must be content with a penurious and aunts a mystery about the house.

INSTALLMENT XLIII.

THE CLUTCHING CLAW.

Elizabeth sighed. The temptation was almost too much for her, but somehow she managed to resist. The money was not hers, but belonged to Stephen.

Mrs. Vestington showed far from a sweet spirit over the matter. "It is absurd," she cried angrily. "I will not take a dowdy girl about with me to expensive hotels. It is not fair to me to ask it."

"But I owe the money to some one else," cried Elizabeth, wildly. "The four last releases were to be denied her at the last moment was more than she could bear."

"A woman or a man?"

The girl went crimson. "A man."

Mrs. Vestington smiled her sweet, almost mocking smile. "A man! O, then it doesn't matter. They never expect women to pay when they have borrowed. They know 'em too well," and she laughed a little harshly.

Elizabeth unwillingly thought of Dolly. It had been her attitude. "All women are not the same," she persisted. "I will pay my debts."

"Aren't there other ways?" Mrs. Vestington's smile was ugly. "Never waste money, my dear, when there is a lesser coin. Money is the only thing which really matters. But if you will not dress suitably for the trip, I am rather sorry."

The agony in the girl's face hid her pause. "Well, an ill-dressed girl doesn't have much of a time of it," she amended.

"Ill-dressed!" The word did not apply, and none knew it better than Elizabeth, who had the clothes-sense and the right way of wearing them very highly developed. Apart from a pretty face and figure—growing now a little too thin—and she had an air of distinction more valuable than either, and her clothes, though simple, were perfectly made and exquisite in line. If she had nothing quite new, nothing of the very latest, which she craved for, knowing how well it would have suited her, she was yet better dressed than most.

Then she was also astonished that Mrs. Vestington should urge upon her the spending of all she possessed in the world, taking no heed for the future. Elderly people usually preached thrift to the young, and certainly Mrs. Vestington practiced it herself.

She spent lavishly on food, it is true, but she somehow managed to get everything a little cheaper than any one else; if she paid her servants high wages, they saved her money in other ways. She spent about a third of her income, at the most, finding a great satisfaction in seeing it mount up at the bank and go into capital, doing no good to herself or to any other soul in the world.

"If you are not going to take me," she said looking obstinate, "I think I had better go away for a little while. I am beginning to feel rather run down."

"But of course I am going to take you," said Mrs. Vestington, rising. "Don't get fancying things, Elizabeth."

A little relieved, the girl slipped into the garden for a moment to herself. O, all this old age and pomp and pressing upon one, suffocating! Not even a puppy.

"Doesn't Mrs. Vestington like dogs?" she asked Brown.

The old man looked up between his slit-like eyelids. "It's dogs as don't like her," he retorted.

"But how funny! She'd be so sweet and kind to them."

"Ay . . . and on . . . and in her own way. Dogs know."

Elizabeth pondered this remark. "Well, cats, then?"

"Cats is different, always there for just what they can get: giving nothing. We had one in the old stables, but it was a wild thing and runned away."

"Lucky this old place is free of mice and rats."

Brown seemed amused. "Even the rats don't stay," he said. "Nothink stays here, misay, save them as gets to, and he went his way chucking over some joke of his own."

"Well, thank goodness, we shall be out of this in a week or two," she thought. "There is nothing to stop us now."

She was wrong. Mrs. Vestington's scintilla stopped them.

She came down with it one morning and had to have Elizabeth's arm to get about. She refused to see a doctor. She had had such attacks from time to time, it seemed, and knew exactly what was to be done for it. "It's not as if there's anything to show," she said. "Neither would she die. Doctors know little about it. It just comes suddenly and goes suddenly as it will. I'm afraid it may mean putting off our trip till I am well, but it can't be helped under the circumstances."

Elizabeth, with a sinking heart, agreed that it could not be helped.

"How long do the attacks usually last?" she asked Brown.

"Mrs. Vestington's scintilla."

He made the weird sounds expressive of amusement. "Never heard of it. But anything a misay gets comes when she wants it to come and goes when she wants it to go; it wouldn't dare do different."

"Silly old man," thought the girl. "I suppose he thinks that's Christian science or something. As if people ever wanted horrid painful things to come!"

She had heard that scintilla was very unaccountable and found it so. Sometimes it was there, at others, for the moment, it disappeared. The victim was not reduced to a crutch apart from Elizabeth's arm; she looked as well as ever, as pink, as vital, as glowing. "She's simply dreadfully alive," she thought, and wondered how she came to use the word dreadfully in such a connection. An absurd term! "It's impossible to think of her ever being dead; she just couldn't be dead; she would not allow it to happen. Why I could die easier . . . as that other girl died for. It can't be just youth that keeps one alive, it must be something more, the thing that Mrs. Vestington has got . . . I can't have it or I would not feel so dreadfully drained and tired."

She could not complain that Mrs. Vestington leaned heavily on her arm. She was no more to give the self-confidence than any real aid, but she was always there, and something that always there may come to nail a little. "I wonder if the one Simmes twin got sometimes to hate the other," she thought, "to feel it was taking more than its share of the air and life . . . sort of eating it up!" Then she checked such a horrible morbid unreal thought. She looked down at the face far below her own, so pretty in its pink daintiness—so young and alive, and from the face to the hand lying over hers. The hand of great age, death itself; a tiny clutching as thing like the talons of an eagle; as strong, rapacious, as cruel. Just at first she had not noticed them, now when they were forever on her arm she could not think of nothing else; they fastened upon her imagination as they fastened upon her flesh. Terrible, frightening, hands, clutching at one; older than age, yet fastened to the things of youth. They pressed upon one's heart, squeezing the very blood out of it, leaving one with a curious empty feeling.

"O, God, don't let me get silly and morbid," she prayed. "Please, please stop me imagining! Morbid people go mad, I suppose that other girl was morbid, too, and that was why . . ."

Had she, too, felt the once spacious gardens narrowing day by day till the walls seemed to get ever nearer, to become the torture chamber where they drew closer day by day, and hour by hour, to crush the helpless victim slowly and agonizingly in the end? What a ghastly fate, and how inescapable!

Crackers Drop Second Straight Game to Chicks, 4 to 1

West Scores Only Atlanta Run in Ninth

Caldwell Holds Crackers While Dumont and Dudley Work for Nishoffs.

BY BEN COTHMAN
Constitution Staff Correspondent.
Memphis, Tenn., August 19.—(AP)—Yesterday, when the first place Crackers played Memphis in the first game of the series, every Atlanta movement called for bushels and bushels of raspberries from the Memphis fans. Today, strange as it may seem, 6,500 of them were in a very complacent mood as they looked on and saw Ray Caldwell hold the Crackers while his mates turned in a 4-1 victory.

Possibly they were still stupefied from the realization that those gray-clad figures and the Calhoun formed the same team that in one night lost 14 ball games and sank from first place to the very bottom of the league and wouldn't have stopped there except for the fact that all leagues have strong bottom.

It was the same club. And it played the same brand of good baseball. The Crackers are still fighting to win ball games. But they won't win as many as they would have. It can't be done. The incentive isn't there. The boys are determined, however, to make the best of it and they'll still fight.

Spectacular fielding on the part of Memphis today was the cause of the Crackers' back on two or three occasions. The placing of Crackers on bases today seemed to call for good fielding and the Calhoun formed the same team that in one night lost 14 ball games and sank from first place to the very bottom of the league and wouldn't have stopped there except for the fact that all leagues have strong bottom.

It seemed sufficient for the Crackers hadn't scored, although there had been a few runs. Caldwell, however, and Atlanta got not a hit until the ninth. Dumont retired in the eighth in favor of a pinch hitter and Dudley went in for the final inning.

The Crackers came up for their ninth. West singled to right. After Doyle fouled out, Riel popped to Ernie and he was always sure today. Partridge, who doubled in the second inning, singled to right this time and West went to third, scoring when Johnny Brock pitched to center for a single. Blethen almost set off the fireworks when he slammed the ball. Joe Kugman, who made a beautiful catch to retire the side and end the ball game.

It was a tough game to lose. But the team was trying. You could tell that. It'll keep on trying. The club showed in the last three weeks that it had fight and they can't take that away from the boys.

It was a hard blow, that showing of the white feather by Birmingham. Maybe Martin's decision will be overruled by the league directors. And, maybe it won't. President Martin will have nothing more to say about the thing. But even today, up here in Memphis has plenty to say. Of course, they're glad of the fact that it has put their club in good position to get the pennant of the season and half, but they can't quite see Martin's ruling.

The Crackers and Chicks will be idle tomorrow playing their final game Tuesday afternoon. The rest will probably be very beneficial to Billy Riel, who also wore today he could hardly move. Billy, as you know, was out for three weeks, and muscles can soften a bit in that length of time. His new line-up isn't brilliant by any means, but we believe he'll soon come around.

Bader continued to Nap Rucker, Brooklyn scout, is proud of him. Nap found Bader down on the sandlots of New Orleans a couple of years ago and believes that Bader has the makings of a big leaguer. He is filling the breach of the Cracker infield admirably and is improving daily.

Barons Release Hurler
Birmingham, Ala., August 19.—(United News.)—George Milstead, southpaw hurler, who was released to make room for Bob Hasty, latest addition to the Barons pitching staff. Hasty was signed several days ago, but Milstead's release was not officially announced until today.

WEST SWEEPS Memphis Sets NET MATCHES Southern Pace AT RYE, N. Y. During Week

Chicks Win 5 Out of 7 Games Played; Crackers Lead in Homers.

Memphis, Tenn., August 19.—(AP)—Coming out of the ship, Doc Prothro took his Memphis Chicks away from the Southern association pennant race the week ending today by making their seven games count for five victories.

Memphis and Atlanta each won four games of the six played during the week, but Atlanta lost by forfeit to the Chicks. The Chicks, however, who held after investigation of charges of violation of the league rules, were found to be in the right. Under the ruling all the games won by the Georgians were forfeited to the Chicks.

Although winning only three of their seven contests Chattanooga led the eight teams in total hits, 72 and in runs scored with 33. Memphis, which played the poorest game of the week, lost to the Chicks, 4 to 1, in a game which crossed the plate only 24 times.

Afield, Birmingham had the best record in the league, winning five games and losing only one. Atlanta and Chattanooga bobbled 12 times each for the worst effort. Sixty-eight errors were made by all the teams, a slightly better record than in previous weeks.

Atlanta carried off home run honors with six. New Orleans having four for second place. Twenty-four circuit breaks were counted during the week. The following hit for the circuit: Yarnan, 2; Carlie, Birmingham; Brock, Gilbert, Angley, 2; Partridge and Cullip, Atlanta; Stahlman, 2; Sigmund, Chattanooga; Taylor, Memphis; Klinger and Gillespie, 2; Little Rock; Narsky, Mobile; Jacobson, 2; and Shaner, Chattanooga; Sigmund and Edgar, 2; Nashville.

Hits, Runs Way Off.
Hitting and running scored as a rule fell off considerably during the week as compared with other weeks. In the 25 games played the eight teams batted out 459 safe hits, which, coupled with 68 errors, accounted for 290 runs.

The following table shows the number of games each team has played, including those of today, those all won and lost, and the runs, hits, errors, opponents' runs and home runs.

Atlanta, 19 games, 72 hits, 33 runs, 10 errors, 29 runs scored, 10 home runs. Birmingham, 19 games, 72 hits, 33 runs, 10 errors, 29 runs scored, 10 home runs. Chattanooga, 19 games, 72 hits, 33 runs, 10 errors, 29 runs scored, 10 home runs.

Chick Woodbury, driving for Fred Comer, finished third in 1 hour, 44 minutes, 40 seconds. Bill Arnold, fourth, Dave Evans fifth, Ray Keen sixth and Deacon Litz seventh. Sixteen cars started the race, but only seven finished.

McDonough took an early lead, which he held until his car skidded on a curve and forced him to the pits for a tire change.

Ralph Hepburn won the 10-mile sprint in 4 minutes, 42.3 seconds. Leon Dury won the five-mile sprint in 2 minutes, 18.5 seconds, averaging 130 miles per hour.

Hamm and Mates Win Relay Race
Berlin, August 19.—(AP)—Emerson Spencer, Stanford university speed king, scored the second American victory in the two-day international track meet today, winning the 400-meter run in 47.8 seconds. Buchner of Germany, finished second. A third American victory came yesterday when Ed Hamm captured the broad jump.

Helmut Koernig, German sprinting star, set a new German record in the 200-meter dash. The time was 20.9 seconds. Henry Russell of the Penn A. C. Philadelphia, took second place. A third American victory came yesterday when Ed Hamm captured the broad jump.

St. Louis To Take National League Lead

BY JOHN J. CHIPMAN.
New York, August 19.—(AP)—The steady march of the Giants toward the National league heights failed to register decisively in the record of the season by winning a game ending yesterday, but the Cardinals who met defeat in two of the three Giant victories in that period, bear witness that the New Yorkers are on their way. As a matter of fact, the Giants stormed the last line of Cardinal defense today, and took possession of the summit by winning a game which is one day beyond the close of these statistics.

Running Back and Neck.
While John McGraw was assaulting the National league leaders in open warfare, the Yankees and the Athletics remained locked in their trenches, winning together and losing together a great part of the time. The Yankees gained half a game on the week—one game in the losing column—and increased their margin to five full contests, no mean advantage with only six weeks of fighting left.

The Giants of 1921 were considered hopeless until they swept five games from the Pirates late in August. The Pirates continued their rampage to lead the National league for the week both in games won and lost and in offensive work. The Bucs won six out of eight and scored 62 runs three out of five, but the tightest defense, committing only three errors and giving their enemies just eighteen runs. The Yankees, on the other hand, fielded 12 times, but were pressed by the Pirates, who erred on 11 occasions.

A Tough Time Ahead.
It begins to seem as if that four-game series starting in Pittsburgh with a double-header Thursday may be the toughest spot the current western invasion for the Giant expeditionary force. The Giant big four, of Benton, Genewick, Pittsinnons and Hubbell, probably will slacken the Pirate assault to some extent, and pave the way for a New York victory in the series, provided McGraw can accelerate his own attack against Bush's rejuvenated pitchers.

Washington took four out of five to head the American teams in games won and lost last week, followed by Cleveland with four out of six. The Indians also led in total hits with 59. The Athletics scored 50 runs to lead in this useful detail. St. Louis and St. Louis led the best fielding with only four errors each, while the Indians took the opposite extreme with nine misplays. Washington gave its opponents just 12 runs, an average of two and two-fifths to each average.

The home-run experts had an off week as the pitchers celebrated. Only 30 circuit blows were hit altogether. The Yankees led with four, but no team getting more than four. The Yankees led the American with that number, while the Cardinals and the Braves shared National and Inter-league honors with the same total.

Records of teams in the major leagues for the week ending last night, including runs, hits, errors, opponents' runs and home runs follow:

Tex Richards Takes a Hand In Title Row AND GREY SOX CLASH TODAY

Sanction of Racing Association Sought for Meet To Be Held Saturday.

The argument over who is southern motorcycle champion has developed into a three-cornered affair between three of the leading racers in this part of the country.

Tex Richards, Atlanta sensation, known as the Miracle Man of the track, has taken a hand in the argument between Nemo Lancaster and Olaf "Easy" Pickens, who claim the title.

Lancaster won the title in 1925 at Macon, Ga., but has not raced since that time. Pickens, who also writes champion after his name, claims the title of the south. He based his claim on the crown of his record of 20 straight victories on southern tracks, something no other rider has accomplished.

Not Able to Race.
Meanwhile, Richards comes out with announcement that he is as much champion as either of the two who are claiming the title. Richards was here for the meet this week, but he was not able to race because of a bad cold. He is expected to be here for the meet here next Saturday.

Wayman Boyles, promoter of the events, states that he will ask the Southern Racing association to sanction the meet next Saturday and declare the winner champion of the south. He will also seek to force Lancaster to race here next Saturday. Nemo announced after the postponement of the races that he would be here for the meet this week. He says he has engagements in the east and cannot race here next Saturday.

Should the meet be sanctioned by the racing association, Atlanta would see one of the best racing cards in the south. Richards, Pickens and Richards, there are Sam Bright, Tennessee state champion; Turp Murphy, Herschel, and Whitely. Richards and Rob Kendrick, all well known riders.

The program will consist of six events, the first a one-mile time trial. A three-mile race, a five-mile race, and a closing 10-mile event will make up the motorcycle events, with a special five-mile auto-motorcycle match race and an Australian pursuit race completing the card.

ONE DEAD, ONE DYING
IN HOLD-UP BATTLE

Omaha, Neb., August 19.—(AP)—One man was killed and another was dying as a result of a gun fight during an attempted holdup of a drug store late today.

R. L. Tintinham, 33, pioneer druggist, was shot and killed by one of the two masked robbers who entered his store with drawn guns.

The dying robber is Sam Swartz, 32, Philadelphia. Dave Smith, well-known to Omaha police, was captured and Swartz wounded by a policeman when they attempted to escape in a stolen automobile.

Nations are beginning to feel that extensive colonial possessions may be a liability instead of an asset.

The German chancellor has announced that as long as he is head of the government, no effort will be made to regain the lost colonies of Germany.

George Clemenceau, after the Franco-Prussian war, took the position that France was not strong enough to hold extensive colonial possessions. Clemenceau lost the fight and France scrambled madly with the rest of Europe to get all the colony possessions she could.

To be tied politically to the "mother" country does not mean necessarily that a colony is tied commercially. In the case of France, less than six per cent of her trade in 1925 was with her colonial possessions. In 1912 about one-half of one per cent of German imports came from her colonies, and about seven-tenths of one per cent were taken by them.

No one has gone into this matter more thoroughly than Norman Angell, British international student and writer, in his pre-war book, "The Great Illusion" and in his post-war book, "The Fruits of Victory."

Latin American Trade

The United States continues to increase its volume of trade with Latin America. Senator Don Carlos G. Davila, ambassador from Chile to the United States, says the United States is now supplying thirty-nine per cent of the world's exports to Latin America, while its three principal rivals England, Germany and France, are together supplying only thirty-one per cent.

The United States has always bought more goods from Latin America than she has sold to Latin America. This condition continues. During the period from 1912-27, America's exports to the Latin American republics amounted to $11,000,000,000, while the imports from those same countries to the United States amounted to $15,000,000,000.

In 1927 Latin America sold to the United States $1,019,000,000 worth of goods, and Latin America bought goods from the United States worth $845,000,000.

Says Senator Davila: "From 1912 to 1927 the share of the Latin American products taken by the United States increased from thirty-three per cent to thirty-seven per cent, while England's share in the same interval decreased from nineteen to seventeen per cent; Germany's, from eleven to ten per cent; France's, from seven to five per cent."

James A. Farrell, United States Steel corporation, believes this condition is a "logical advance and not a war growth."

Foreign Auto Sales.

American automobiles to the value of $259,934,000 were sold during the first six months of 1928 to the nations of the world. This is an increase of 17.12 per cent over the first six months of 1927, according to the United States department of commerce.

Automobile manufacturers are turning their attention more and more to foreign trade. This is evidenced by the further fact that the automobile figures for 1928 represent a gain of 49 per cent over the exports of the first half of 1926, which amounted to $182,000,000.

For 1928, Canada is first in the number of passenger cars purchased from the United States. They come Australia, followed by Argentina and Sweden in the order named. The average value of the passenger cars shipped was $850, wholesale.

Strike Vote.

September 2 the vote of 70,000 railroad trainmen and conductors employed by eighty roads operating west of the Mississippi will be counted to determine whether a strike will be called. This is evidenced by the officials now expect almost a unanimous vote in favor of a strike.

"Our grievance is that the western salaries are low and the south now is $5.20; and in the west, $4.80. The western men put in an average of 84 hours a year than those of the east and south. We cannot accept the principle that smaller pay and longer hours are the equivalent to larger wages and shorter hours. It is the discrimination we seek to break up."

Reports coming direct to me from Florida residents indicate that the recent storm did very little damage. The fruit crop was not seriously affected, I am told.

Florida, in 1927, according to the United States department of commerce, put $25,041,000 into permanent improvements; $22,292,000 of this was put into highways, $19,556,000 for new construction of roads and $2,696,000 for road maintenance.

Florida has learned the lesson taught by California, that good roads are indispensable in a tourist country.

Florida has no state public debt.

Excellent Advice!

A friend of mine, taking exception to remarks made in one of my dispatches a few weeks back, wrote that he believes one of the great qualities of success is the ability to admit when one is wrong.

"How far is it to Chicago if I keep on walking this way," a road traveler asked a stranger.

"About 25,000 miles," was the ready answer. "But if you will turn completely around and walk the other way it is just five miles."

Excellent advice.

4,000 HEAR SERMON
BY BISHOP CANDLER

Lake Junaluska, N. C., August 19.—(AP)—More than 4,000 persons heard the sermon delivered by Bishop Warren A. Candler, Atlanta, at the assembly auditorium of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, here this morning preliminary to the opening of the denomination's laymen conference tomorrow.

The laymen's conference is expected to draw the largest crowd yet to assemble on the grounds this summer. Bishop Edwin T. Mounzon, Charlotte, N. C., will be the platform speaker tomorrow night.

Bishop Candler's sermon was of the "old-fashioned" type as he explained at the outset. The subject was "The witness of the spirit," in which he counseled his hearers not to depart from the "old-fashioned" religion. "The most central fact in history," said the speaker, "is to know we are sons of God."

Pointing out that many of the old hymns have passed into disuse, he said, "Jazz music is no more help in getting folks into heaven than a circus band would be in leading men to war."

Large numbers of those expecting to attend the laymen's conference had already arrived tonight and all are expected to reach here by early tomorrow.

Goebel Attempts
A Non-Stop Hop
Cross Continent

Los Angeles, August 19.—(AP)—Art Goebel, who took first prize money in the Dole Hawaiian flight, hopped off at 12:00 p. m. today in his Hornet motorized Lockheed Vega plane, "Yankee Doodle," in an attempted non-stop flight to New York.

Goebel will attempt to better the transcontinental flight record of 26 hours and 50 minutes held by Lieutenant Macready and Kelly.

The fliers plan to follow the southern route through Yuma, Phoenix, Albuquerque, El Paso, Amarillo, Kansas City and thence through Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

The plane carried a capacity load.

From this date I will not be responsible for any debts by Mrs. O. V. Morgan or Mrs. Nina Morgan. O. V. MORGAN.
